Addictions is a family illness

— A Mom & Two Grandma's Journey

We heard about PEP roughly a year ago speaking with someone from Access 24/7. (Access 24/7 provides a range of urgent and non-urgent addiction and mental health services.) We felt that all our lives were spinning out of control, living with son/grandson who deals with drug addiction.

We first noticed a change in his friends, schooling, and personality at about age 13. We focused on his ADHD and depression that he eventually got diagnosed with. We were so focused on his ADHD that we missed how bad his addiction really was.

Over a 7-year period, he would use marijuana, meth and other street drugs and prescribed medication which led to trouble with the law and overdoses that landed him in the hospital multiple times. Today he still struggles with friend/family relationships and drug psychosis, as a result of his addiction.

We feel that PEP has been a life saver. The facilitators make the group feel like a safe space to share what we have been going through without judgement. One of the first things that we have learned from the facilitators is that "Change Begins with Me".

We get so caught up in 'dysfunctional and crazy', we forget about us and the rest of our families. How do we get to peace and feel good? How and what do we change to achieve this? We are learning by using the tools from the facilitator's toolbox, one of which is Boundaries. Little by little, as we share our stories about our week, what strategy/boundary/or other tools we put into practice from what we learn, the knowledgeable feedback and encouragement from our facilitators, all works together to see results. Even when, at times, we feel we're failing, we are moving forward, little by little none the less. It truly is a learning, experiential journey. We are now able to understand my son's addiction better.

We remember the first several meetings, using the word "hope", "I hope he'll agree to attend a treatment centre.", "I hope he doesn't die.". Our knowledgeable facilitators helped us to look at the word "hope". We were going through the years hoping, while our loved one was still using, struggling, hope-less in addiction, as we somewhat put our own lives on hold. Hence our end-of-meeting statement, "Change Begins with Me".

A great encouragement and witness to the validity of this is our regular MEDD-X attendees who are an amazing testimony of what happens when a person deals with addiction. We are so proud of them. They work hard and their lives change. They do give hope that with a lot of consistent hard work life can be lived without drugs and that means there is hope for our loved ones to do the same.

We are very thankful that we took the first step and attended a meeting at PEP. A valuable lesson we learned was that taking care of ourselves was important to both us and my son. Our first meetings were a lot of tears but eventually we even found some humour and continue to attend the meetings.

Change begins with me (us).

MEDD-X Alumni Life's Learning

Hello, my name is Alyson and I was a participant of PEP's MEDD-X program and Edmonton Drug Treatment Court.

As a person in the engineering field, I didn't think I could let my addiction get to the point of getting a drug-trafficking charge, but it did. Now I must live my life with a criminal record, knowing that I won't be able to pursue some of the jobs that would require me to travel abroad. After completing the Drug Treatment program, I've learned a lot about myself and ways to cope when faced with high-stress situations.

Debbie Bridge, our Program Manager at Resource Connect, collaborating with other agencies; navigating our PEP families to more support.

My experience with PEP was incredibly eye-opening. I felt safe and welcomed by the staff and parents who attended. In the beginning of the session, they do a 20-minute education component on all aspects of addiction and recovery. Then they do a go-around where the parents will talk about what is currently happening in their lives.

Seeing how the parents would talk about their loved ones and what they're going through made me realize how much stress and pain I caused with my family.

I wish my parents had access to this program, just so they could have a safe space to talk about what they were going through and have a support system to connect with. I built a good relationship with the parents at PEP and I genuinely cared for them.

The biggest highlight and learning experience of my time at PEP was when I brought up that I wanted my Rosie back but my apartment has a "no pet policy".

One of the parents suggested I ask my property manager if I could bring my pet tarantula in. For the longest time I just assumed they would say no so I didn't bother to ask.

They encouraged me to ask and told me the worst thing they could say is no. So not only did my property manager allow me to bring my tarantula in, but they also let me have a kitty, too! So, I learned to always ask, and I have my PEP family to thank for that.

Message of Hope

by Lerena Greig

A message of hope can mean different things to different people.

From a “non-secular” view, or Spiritual, hope comes through faith. This communication may be direct with our God or belief system through prayer or connection with others. There is trust and reliance, which implies faith and dependence, as well as the belief that hope exists and will produce a positive outcome.

What others call “realistic” hope is much more of an active analytical process. It involves an assessment of the future, perseverance, expectancy and an overall look at all the various possibilities and their consequences which can promote the realization of hope and its expectancy.

No matter how you view it, hope is an important ingredient of living and having a fulfilled life. It’s an assessment of what can and cannot be changed.

I have hope because everyday I see the families at PEP trying to help a loved one struggling with addiction by reaching out and asking for support and knowledge; in taking care of themselves; their willingness to learn new skills even though they are overwhelmed by what is happening. I believe with a deep commitment to our values and compassion for ourselves and others, we will find ways to maintain hope. If we all find ways to share why we have hope, it can create a foundation we can build upon; supporting one another while maintaining hope.

Sometimes we need help to see things a different way. There may be times when you are challenged with believing there is hope. Reach out; learn and get connected; be supported. Come and be a part of the PEP community, the PEP family. Even in the midst of the challenges you and your family are facing, there is hope..
